INTRODUCTION

The Centre for Development Economics (CDE) was set up with a generous grant from the Ministry of Finance, Government of India as a research adjunct of the Delhi School of Economics (Department of Economics) to provide better research facilities to the faculty and the students of the Department of Economics. It is a non-profit organization that supports research in all areas of Economics. It came into existence in August 1992 and began effectively functioning from early 1993, with the full range of activities picking up only in late 1993 after it received its grants from the Government of India and the Ford Foundation.

AIMS

- To promote and disseminate research;
- To sponsor economists from all over India and abroad to visit the Delhi School of Economics;
- To conduct regular conferences and workshops;
- To upgrade research infrastructure, including communication and computing facilities.

Activities During 2010 – 2011

WINTER SCHOOL 2010

The Centre for Development Economics organized an international workshop, called Winter School 2010, during December 13 to 15, 2010. Professor Dinesh Singh, Vice-Chancellor, University of Delhi, delivered the inaugural address.

The workshop consisted of two parts. The first part consisted of a series of expository lectures by invited eminent economists on their fields of research expertise. The second part consisted of short presentations of current research papers by scholars from India and abroad.

Professor Prasanta K. Pattanaik of the University of California at Riverside, USA delivered a series of lectures on 'Theory of Social Choice' entitled 'The Ethical Basis of Normative Economics and the Concept of Well-being' and 'Functioning and Capability'. Professor Dilip Abreu of Princeton University delivered a series of lectures entitled 'Bargaining and Reputation'. Professor Roy Batchelor of Cass Business School, City University London delivered a series of lectures on 'Banking and Finance' entitled 'Forecasting versus Econometrics', 'Heterogeneous Agents, Chaos Theory, Neural Networks and Genetic Algorithms' and 'Technical Trading Rules – Analysing the Analysts'. In addition to these lectures, short research talks were given by scholars from Burdwan University (West Bengal), Institute for Financial Management & Research (Chennai), Delhi School of Economics, Visva-Bharati (Santiniketan, West Bengal), TERI University (Delhi), Indian Statistical Institute (Kolkata), University of Paris I Pantheon Sorbonne, Columbia Law School (New York, USA), Indian School of Business (Hyderabad), University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, Indian Institute of Technology (Kanpur), Waseda University (Tokyo, Japan), Madras School of Economics (Chennai), University of Cape Town (South Africa) and Indian Institute of Technology (Delhi).

The Winter School was extremely well-attended. Apart from the students and faculty of the Department of Economics, Delhi School of Economics, students and faculty from various other institutions in Delhi also attended the sessions and participated in the discussions.

The Centre for Development Economics would like to express its gratitude to University of Delhi, NABARD (Mumbai) and National Housing Bank (New Delhi), for their generous support to the Winter School.

SUKHAMOY CHAKRAVARTY MEMORIAL LECTURE 2010

The Professor Sukhamoy Chakravarty Memorial Lecture Organized by the Centre, was delivered by Professor Kaushik Basu, Chief Economic Advisor to the Ministry of Finance, Government of India and C. Marks Professor of Economics, Cornell University, on December 10, 2010. He spoke on 'India's Food Grain Policy – An Economic Perspective'.

REFRESHER TRAINING PROGRAMME FOR ISS PROBATIONERS

The Centre organized a refresher training course on “Recent Developments in Index Numbers” during August 1 – 5, 2011, for a batch of 37 ISS Probationers from 31st and 32nd batch nominated by the National Academy of Statistical Administration (NASA), Central Statistical Organization (CSO), Ministry of Statistics & Programme Implementation, Government of India.

Professor T. C. A. Anant (Faculty Member, Delhi School of Economics and current Chief Statistician of India, Ministry of Statistics and Programme Implementation) delivered the inauguration lecture, while Professor Sudipto Mundle (Emeritus Professor at the NIPFP and Member, National Statistical Commission, Government of India) delivered the valedictory lecture to the participants.

KRISHNA RAJ SUMMER FELLOWSHIPS PROGRAMME 2010

Under the Krishna Raj Summer Programme (funded by Sameeksha Trust), nine groups of students from the Departments of Economics and Sociology of the Delhi School of Economics were selected and provided fellowships to carry out field surveys during the summer of 2010. These nine projects were selected from a set of 21 applications received initially and the surveys were executed under the supervision of Ashwini Deshpande, J. V. Meenakshi, Aditya Bhattacharjea and Anirban Kar.

The following projects were selected:

- 1. Evaluation of Ladli Yojana
Apoorva Gupta (Economics)
- 2. Living in Bavana: Childhood Experiences of Girls
Anupriya Gaur, Nidhi Gaur & Nivya Nair (Sociology)
- 3. Cost of Human Wildlife Conflict and Its Compensation in Kuno Wildlife Sanctuary
Radhika Kapoor, Randeep Kaur & Sneha Lamba (Economics)
- 4. Identifying BPL Households: A Comparison of Competing Approaches
M. R. Sharan (Economics)
- 5. Van Panchayats in Three Villages: Dependency and Access
Chandana Anusha, Tanya Matthan & Devika Narayan (Sociology)
- 6. Solid Waste Management: A Case Study of Delhi
Vishruti Gupta (Economics)
- 7. How Does the Existing Bamboo Policy Affect the Livelihood Options and Commercial Prospects of the Economically Disadvantaged in the North Eastern States of Mizoram and Arunachal Pradesh?
Jennifer Pachua, Malavika Vyawahare & Zilpha Modi (Sociology) and Bhavnit Batra (Economics)

8. The Role of NGOs in Social Welfare of Poor People

Vijender Kumar, Virender Kumar & Alok Nandan (Economics)

9. Interface between Religion, Politics and Tourism in Dharamshala

Naina Sharma & Meghana Arora (Sociology)

The project entitled 'Identifying BPL Households: A Comparison of Competing Approaches' by M. R. Sharan, student of M. A. (Economics) was selected for publication in the Economic and Political Weekly (EPW) and appeared in Vol. XLVI, Nos. 26 & 27, June 25, 2011.

KRISHNA RAJ SUMMER FELLOWSHIPS PROGRAMME 2011

Under the Krishna Raj Summer Programme (funded by Sameeksha Trust), fellowships were granted to eight groups of students from the Departments of Economics and Sociology of the Delhi School of Economics, for conducting field surveys under the supervision of Ashwini Deshpande, J. V. Meenakshi, Aditya Bhattacharjea and Anirban Kar, during May and June 2011. The detailed reports on these surveys will be provided in next year's annual report.

Research Projects 2010-11

INTERNATIONAL ECONOMETRIC INDIA LINK MODEL

(Forecasts are developed as part of World Project LINK.)

Project Coordinators: : Pami Dua and N.R. Bhanumurthy
Research Associates: : Lokendra Kumawat and Deepika Goel

- (e) Presentation of forecasts at the National Council of Applied Economic Research (NCAER), New Delhi on 29th July 2010.

A STUDY OF APPROPRIATE TAX AND REGULATORY POLICIES FOR THE USE OF PLASTIC BAGS IN DELHI.

Principal Investigators : Kanupriya Gupta & Rohini Somanathan
Funded by : SANDEE, Kathmandu, Nepal

In this paper we test for appropriate policies to control for plastic bag usage in Delhi. In January 2009, the Government of Delhi introduced a wide-ranging ban on the use of plastic bags in market places. Our results showed dilution of efficacy of the ban within a year, with widespread lack of enforcement. About 94% of the consumers still use plastic bags in blatant violation of rules. This motivated us to examine the effects of other possible price and non-price instruments requiring less monitoring and enforcement for controlling the use of plastic bags.

The effectiveness of these policies was tested through field experiments in semi-organized retail sectors. Over a 10-week period we introduced phased interventions in independently managed grocery and fruit and vegetable stores in several markets in the capital city of Delhi. The policy interventions included (i) provision of information to consumers through posters discouraging plastic and encouraging collective efforts to improve environmental quality, (ii) a cash back scheme contingent on use of non-plastic bags and (iii) cheap cloth bags as provision of substitutes to plastic bags.

We observed over 20,000 consumer transactions over the survey period and results indicate that cumulatively these interventions increase the proportion of consumers bringing their own bags from 4.6% in the baseline to 17.8% post treatment. The plastic bags (only) usage on an average came down from 79.1% to 65.8% respectively. Hence, in developing countries with little enforcement capacity, blanket ban may not be the best possible solution. Low cost information interventions, availability of substitutes to plastic bags and subsidies (taxes) on the use of reusable bags (plastic bags) could constitute an important policy-mix. We however find little persistence in these outcomes, with most consumers reverting back to pre-experiment patterns of behavior after the interventions were withdrawn. Our study suggests that low-cost instruments can substantially affect consumer behavior and environmental quality but that these interventions may need to be sustained over reasonably long periods to change norms.

ASIA-PACIFIC DISPUTE RESOLUTION PROGRAM – UNDERSTANDING INTEGRATED COMPLIANCE WITH INTERNATIONAL TRADE AND HUMAN RIGHTS STANDARDS IN COMPARATIVE PERSPECTIVE OF THE SOCIAL SCIENCES AND HUMANITIES RESEARCH COUNCIL OF CANADA (SSHRC).

Funded by : The University of British Columbia, Vancouver, Canada

The project continues to encompass five individual/team projects. Following is the progress report up to July 2011.

Ashwini Deshpande (Delhi School of Economics)

A keenly debated issue in the context of caste disparities in contemporary India is how exactly they are changing as the Indian economy globalises and liberalises. One view is that globalization, specifically captured by FDI and entry of MNCs, is likely to reduce inter-caste disparities by providing new employment opportunities and sources of upward mobility, hitherto unavailable to traditionally marginalized groups such as the Dalits. The project seeks to analyse whether, and to what extent, this view is valid, or is it the case that globalization is actually exacerbating pre-existing disparities by reinforcing traditional hierarchies.

In order to explore this, my work starts with a review of international experiences of the impact of globalization on domestic group disparities as well as a review of some literature on FDI in India and the discussions about the possible impact of liberalisation on caste disparities. I have compiled a review of the existing literature. I have been able to obtain data from the Ministry of Commerce on FDI approvals in India for the last ten years. I am now in the process of cleaning this data, assigning ISIC codes and identifying the location of these projects, in most cases right down to the district. This will then be used to build an all-India profile of FDI in the last decade. We will be able to identify total magnitudes, by state, by sector, and wherever possible, by district or region within a state. I also have estimates, based on National Sample Survey data, of educational attainment indicators by caste and gender, again at the district level. These two sets of data will be used to explore whether FDI could be instrumental in expanding employment to Dalits and women in sectors and avenues that were hitherto unavailable or out of reach. A part of the estimation will also explore the locational choice of FDI -- why it has tended to be geographically lopsided and the implications of geographical concentration in terms of employment creation for marginalised groups such as Dalits and women. This is very much work in progress, so there are no publications yet. Ashwini Deshpande's ongoing work examines the impact of globalization and in particular foreign direct investment on traditional caste hierarchies. Her data on educational attainments of caste and gender is complete and she is now cleaning the data regarding foreign direct investment and its location.

Ashwini Kulkarni (Pragati Abhiyan, Nashik)

Studied Systems of Andhra Pradesh which is doing very well in implementation of NREGA. Presented a report to Maharashtra Knowledge Corporation Limited which is advisor to Government of Maharashtra for e-Governance. The goal of Ashwini Kulkarni's work is to compare institutional models that govern the right to food act across different states in India. Her particular concern is to identify the governance practices that are responsible for the poor performance of the right to work schemes in Maharashtra. She has chosen two comparison states – Andhra Pradesh and Rajasthan. She has completed the study of Andhra Pradesh and her work on Rajasthan is ongoing.

Invited to be part of Maharashtra Knowledge Corporation Ltd (MKCL)'s team to study NREGA's AP model. Presented a report to Government of Maharashtra. Now invited to be consultant to MKCL who have a contract with Government of Maharashtra for suggesting improvements in implementation systems of NREGA.

Initiated a network of Civil Society Organisations working on NREGA in Maharashtra. The second meeting was purposefully held at Mumbai and the Minister and the Principal Secretary were invited and they did attend. This served as a platform for policy discussion and demanding necessary changes for improvement.

Closely working with the Government of Maharashtra, Principal Secretary to improve the mechanisms especially getting a Call Centre approved, putting an Ombudsman in every district.

Milind Murugkar (Pragati Abhiyan, Nashik) Bharat Ramaswami (Indian Statistical Institute, Delhi)

They have independently written academic papers and newspaper articles concerning the reform of food subsidies in India. For the future, they plan to collaborate on understanding the opportunities and limits for policy reform of food subsidies in different states in India. The chosen states are Chattisgarh, Madhya Pradesh and Maharashtra.

One of the main activities of Milind Murugkar has been advocacy of alternatives to the Public Distribution System.

- A short documentary 'America's Rationing System' made by Milind Murugkar and his colleagues, based on the interviews of various stakeholders of the Food Stamp system in the New York found place in the leading TV channels in India. America's Ration System was aired three times on a leading television channel, IBN-Lokmat in August 2010, a regional network serving India's second most populous state of Maharashtra, home to over 96 million people. A shorter version of the documentary was broadcast on the leading Indian national television channel CNN-IBN, a sister station to CNN and well known for its Citizen Journalism Segment featuring news pieces created by ordinary citizens wishing to highlight pressing social concerns. America's Ration System aired on this program and was subsequently nominated for a Citizen Journalist Award by CNN-IBN's editorial board (<http://ibnlive.in.com/cjaward2010/nominees-fightback.php>)
- Milind Murugkar along with Bharat Ramaswami and Ashok Kotwal wrote articles in the leading news papers such as INDIAN Express and Hindustan Times, to draw the attention of the policy makers towards alternative mechanism of transferring the food subsidy to the poor such as cash transfer and food stamps. These attempts assume significance as the India is about to pass an ambitious Food Security bill to make food security the fundamental right of the poor in the country.
- These advocacy efforts succeeded in drawing attention of Mr. Rahul Gandhi, leader of the ruling Congress party to a piece written by Bharat Ramaswami, Ashok Kotwal and Milind Murugkar in the Indian Express of 19th January 2011. On 2nd February 2011 Bharat Ramaswami and Milind Murugkar made a presentation to Mr. Gandhi in his office in New Delhi, on 'Breaking the stalemate on the food security bill'.
- On 21st February 2011, South Asian Research and Development Initiative (SARDI) organized a panel discussion in New Delhi on 'Food Security and Indian Public Distribution system'. Milind Murugkar contributed to the discussion.
- Milind Murugkar participated as a panelist in a television program on alternatives to the Public Distribution System. This program 'Budget allocation for social sector' was telecast by a leading national TV channel NDTV Profit on 10th March 2011. (<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=kq2kKy3fG6U>).

- Milind Murugkar, visited villages in Buldhana district in the month of December 2010. He interacted with farmers and landless laborers through individual as well as group discussion. The purpose of these filed visits was to explore issues related to food security and farm wages.

THE DUTCH FACTORIES IN INDIA, VOLUME III, 1628 – 1630: A COLLECTION OF DUTCH EAST INDIA COMPANY DOCUMENTS PERTAINING TO INDIA.

Principal Investigator : Om Prakash
 Funded by : Indian Council of Historical Research (ICHR), New Delhi

The aforementioned project was sanctioned vide ICHR letter number I-33/2009-ICHR (GIA-III) RP dated 23 November 2009. The project was formally started on 1 December 2009.

The records of the Dutch East India Company are recognized to be a major source material on Indian history for the seventeenth and the eighteenth centuries. The Company, established in 1602, was the biggest trading entity of its time. It engaged in extensive trading operations in India for nearly two hundred years. The letters, reports and other documents available in the Company's archives contain an enormous amount of details on a variety of subjects. While commercial and economic matters arising out of the Company's own trade in the subcontinent as well as that of its rivals, including the Indian merchants, figure prominently in its documentation, these are not the only concerns of these records. Political, social, religious, and other matters are often found to have been discussed extensively in these documents. A particular strength of these records is the solid quantitative data they contain on a large number of variables.

The work done so far on the project relates to the year 1628 and a part of the year 1629. Note that as in the earlier volumes in the series (Vol. I covered the years 1617 to 1623 and Vol. II 1624 to 1627), each document has had to be translated from the original seventeenth century Dutch version into English. The documents were then edited and footnoted.
